

THE FLOWERS

"Oh dear," sighed one flower.
"Oh dear," sighed another flower.
"Oh dear, oh dear," sighed a third flower.
"I'm being crushed," said a fourth flower.
"I'm being hurt," said a fifth flower.
"Oh, this is so painful," said a sixth flower.
"Oh, this is so uncomfortable," said a seventh flower.
"Whatever shall we do?" asked an eighth flower.
"Whatever can we do?" asked a ninth flower.
"It's not fair to us," said a tenth flower.
"We don't do them any harm," said an eleventh flower.
"We try to make things nice for them," said a twelfth flower.
"We can't do it much longer if they treat us this way," said a thirteenth flower.
"We'll not last long and it's not fair," said a fourteenth flower.
"We'll fade so quickly and it's all their fault," said a fifteenth flower.
"And we did look so nice when we first arrived," said a sixteenth flower.
"Maybe they'll change us later," said a seventeenth flower.
"It doesn't look like it," said an eighteenth flower.
"No, they're just the kind who do this sort of thing," said a nineteenth flower.
"Yes, I've heard of their kind before," said a twentieth flower.

There were twenty beautiful flowers, and they had been taken as a present to a family of people. The family took the flowers, or rather one member of the family took them, and even though they had lots and lots of flower dishes and vases they took the whole big bunch of flowers and put them into one vase.

They were just able to fit in, and the person who had fixed them this way seemed relieved that she had been able to jam them all into one dish instead of putting them all over the house in a number of dishes.

Only one dish held the flowers, and yet with such tall, fine flowers, there could have been quite a look of a flower garden had they been properly arranged.

And now they were huddled so closely together that they would not last long.

Flowers jammed into a dish so tightly could not be expected to stand it. And they felt so bad about it. They thought of the long time they would last if they were only given more room.

They thought of how much some people would enjoy having just a flower or two, and when they were jammed in this manner a number of flowers could have been taken out and not noticed.

In fact it would have helped the other flowers.

It was dreadful. The flowers felt, to be somewhere where they were not loved and not cared for properly.

So many people got such comfort and happiness and joy and delight out of flowers that it seemed so wrong that they should have gone to a family where they were not appreciated.

They were taken so for granted. They were not treated as though they were chosen for their levelness. They were just flowers—a present to be accepted as all right but nothing about which to make a fuss.

Oh dear, if only they had not come here.

Flowers were never meant to be crushed. Flowers were made to be loved, really and truly loved.

Doesn't Call Now
Little Ann—You and Mrs. Van Oelt never worked in a stable, did you, Mrs. De Bunk?
Mrs. De B.—No, of course not. Heaven, whatever put that into your head?
Little Ann—My ma said you two didn't hitch horses very well.

Grandma Was Homemade
Little Jewel (aged five)—Grandma, are you Irish?
Grandma—No, dear.
Little Jewel—Are you German?
Grandma—No.
Little Jewel—Well, then, I guess you must be homemade.

Not Read Up
Teacher—Johnny, you may tell us about the Boston tea party.
Johnny—I guess you will have to ask me. I'm the only one at our house who reads the society page.

Out of Balance
The Young Wife (to her husband)—Oh, dear, I can't make head nor tail of any accounts. How do you add up two pounds of steak and a dozen oranges?

GAS BUGGIES or HEM AND AMY—The Plot Thickens.

OF COURSE I DON'T BURN THE STORE—THE FIRST I KNEW ABOUT IT WAS WHEN I WENT DOWN TO OPEN UP—THERE WAS THE LANDLORD, THE CHIEF AND EVERYBODY BUT THE MAYOR—RIGHT AWAY THEY STARTED SHOOTING QUESTIONS AT ME—THEN SOMEBODY SUGGESTED WE COME OVER HERE—THEY ASSURED ME IT WAS MERELY TO GET AWAY FROM THE CROWD, BUT WHEN I ASK TO BE LET OUT THEY TELL ME THE CHIEF WENT AWAY AND FORGOT TO LEAVE THE KEY—

WHEN I OPENED THE DOOR AND SAW TWO TIGHT-LOOKING MEN I WOULDN'T LET THEM IN TILL THEY SAID THEY WERE POLICEMEN—AFTER I HAD ANSWERED ALL THEIR QUESTIONS THEY TOLD ME ABOUT THE FIRE, AND YOU BEING HERE—I NEARLY FAINTED—

YOU CERTAINLY ANSWERED THEIR QUESTIONS, ALL RIGHT—THEY CAME BACK HERE AND LAUGHED THEMSELVES HOARSE OVER MY ALIBI—THEY SAID EVEN YOUR WIFE DOESN'T BELIEVE YOU WERE HELD-UP—AND YOU PLAYED RIGHT INTO THEIR HANDS WHEN YOU TOLD EM ABOUT THE SCRAP I HAD WITH THE LANDLORD—AFTER TALKING TO YOU, THEY PUT ME DOWN AS A DANGEROUS GUY—THEY EVEN SHIFTED ROOMMATES ON ME—PUT IN THIS BIG EGG—SAID THEY DIDN'T WANT ANY MURDERS AROUND HERE—IT'D GIVE THE JAIL A BLACK EYE—

I SEE IT NOW—THEY LET ME THINK THEY WERE LOOKING FOR SOMEONE WITH A MOTIVE FOR ATTACKING YOU, AND I LAID IT ON THICK ABOUT THE LANDLORD—WHAT A MESS—WHAT A MESS!!

WHILE HEM AND AMY ARE Pondering over the one short night that was so crowded full of excitement, two other people in another part of town are discussing the same thing, with much raucous laughter.

SEE THAT FIRE, LEFTY? NOTICE WHO THEY'RE HARBORING IT ONTO—WELL, THAT'S THE GUY THAT GYPPED ME OUT OF MY PRY WHEN HE CARRIED ME FOR ACCIDENTALLY BUSTIN' A WINDOW—I PLANTED THAT FIRE IN HIS JOINT, AND FRAMED HIM SO HE'D HAVE NO ALIBI—HE'S FACING A FIVE-YEAR STRETCH—I GUESS THAT AMY GETTIN' EVEN—EN!!

HAR-HAR—SAY IT IS, MAKE—YOU SURE KNOW YOUR EGGS, RARO—

Practice Continuity
The more the art of continuity is practiced, the easier it becomes. We readily form habits. When a man makes up his mind that he will not give up, he gets into his stride and proceeds just because that becomes part of his life. To be aimless is to founder; to "have nothing to do in particular" is to get nothing done. To continue in the thing that uplifts and fortifies is to gain the victory. So, get your channel and follow your chart.—Exchange.

Lubricoil Insurance for your motor

TWO metallic bearing surfaces rubbed together dry will generate friction and heat and will wear rapidly. This absorbs power. A coat of the right oil between two such surfaces will form a cushion, reduce friction and heat and will prevent wear.

Piston and rings must be made smaller than the cylinder in order to run without sticking. This slight clearance between piston rings and cylinder walls allows leakage. A coat of the right oil between rings and cylinder wall will form a gas seal to prevent lost compression and power.

The right oil for the lubrication of the motor is a heat-resisting, uniform quality oil that will form a most highly adhesive to the metallic surfaces and will constantly maintain that coat under all service conditions.

Soco Motor Oil will "lubricate" these bearing surfaces.

THE SIGN of SOCONY Guarantees Motor Oil That:

1. Lubricates and cushions every part
2. Increases compression and power
3. Resists high motor temperatures
4. Maintains uniform quality
5. Are found throughout Soconyland.

*LUBRICOAT: To cover, as with an impervious coat of oil, all moving and frictional parts of a motor car engine; best done with the proper grade of Soco Motor Oil.

Rules of the Contest

Any one may compete in this contest, except those connected directly or indirectly with the Standard Oil Company of New York.

The answers to the five questions may be typewritten or written with pen and ink—one side of the paper only—one answer to each question.

No single answer may be longer than 150 words, and each answer must be numbered to match the number of the question. All answers must be written in the English language, and are property of the Standard Oil Company of New York.

All five answers should be sent in together, and the contestant's name and address should be plainly written on the first page of answers.

No answers will be considered which are received later than Saturday, July 17th, 1926. The awards will be made to those who write the BEST answers to the five questions. That is, those whose answers, in the opinion of the judges, indicate that they have given most thought to the subjects covered by the questions and have learned most from The Veteran Motorist's instructions in the Standard Oil Company of New York's advertisement.

Address all answers to "The Veteran Motorist," c/o Standard Oil Company of New York, Room 411, 26 Broadway, New York City.

Amundsen Starts In Quest of Pole

Arctic Norge. In Charge of Amundsen and Ellsworth. Carries Supplies for Six Weeks—After Finding North Pole, Expedition May Continue to Alaska.

Oso, Norway, May 11.—The Amundsen-Ellsworth polar dirigible, carrying Captain Roald Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth, sailed from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, at 10:10 to-day, in quest of the North Pole.

Since 1 a. m., the Norge had been fully loaded, with all of her crew board, awaiting favorable weather or the hop-off.

It was not until shortly before 10 o'clock that the weather was sufficiently favorable to warrant Colonel Noble, the Italian navigator, giving the word to the land forces to cast off.

With only a mild wind, and with all prospects of excellent weather during the early stages of the flight, the Norge moved away from her mooring mast shortly after ten o'clock.

There were cheers from the land crew and some members of Commander Byrd's expedition who were ashore from the S. S. Chantier.

Confident of Success.

Captain Amundsen, in bidding farewell to those remaining behind, declared he was highly confident of success. He said he could not say how long the Norge would remain in the Arctic regions, but the dirigible carries supplies sufficient to last well over six weeks. Sledges and equipment for a land expedition have been loaded as well as collapsible boats.

The Norge will not hasten on its way to Alaska, Captain Amundsen said, unless weather conditions make it necessary. The Norwegian explorer is anxious to spend as much time as possible making observations in the Polar regions and exploring the regions beyond the Pole.

The Italian members of the crew, strapped in huge furs, offered a surprising spectacle as the ship sailed away for even colder weather than that which has caused them considerable discomfort already.

Flags of Three Nations.

The Norge carries the American, the Norwegian and Italian flags, all of which will be dropped at the Pole. Captain Amundsen is expected here to arrive at Point Barrow within a fortnight, and with good luck the Norge may continue its flight on to an Alaskan center.

"When we reached Spitzbergen the hardest part of the expedition was over, and there need be no thought of walking back," said Colonel Noble in an interview prior to the departure.

Expect Help by Radio.

"Our difficulties may be increased by fog. In the Arctic, too, our compasses will be not entirely reliable due to the eccentricity of the magnetic pole. We will also use the sun-compass which Amundsen used in last year's flight. Of course we shall also have help by radio. We expect to receive regular meteorological reports from the Soviet stations at Murmansk and at the mouth of the Yenisei river, from Norwegian stations, and from the American stations in Alaska."

Col. Noble said that he believed Amundsen had given up any idea of stopping at the Pole. Nevertheless, he has solved the problem of landing, if it is decided to make an attempt at landing. He has not only anchors aboard, but he also plans to use a bang anchor for use in water. If an open space of water can be found.

"I believe we ought always to be able to find a rift in the ice," said the colonel. "If we do, then we have a large bag, capable of absorbing about 1,000 kilos of water. This would be enough to bring the ship down. We will simply fly over the track in the ice, lower the bag, and then pull ourselves down to it. We expect to use this system to land near Alaska if we do not actually reach Point Barrow."

AGRICULTURE

Don't further handicap the poor start made by meadows this spring by pasturing them too soon.

One effect of the backward spring is that brood rearing is two to three weeks late, as reported by beekeepers.

Good growers say that probably more beans are planted too early than too late for best results. Good crops have been harvested from seed planted as late as June 20.

Have you a copy of "The farm shop and tool equipment"? It's almost as handy as the shop itself. Ask the publisher at Ithaca, N. Y., for E 146, if you wish the bulletin.

Blackback does not give a big return keep down the cash outlay in growing it. One hundred and fifty to two hundred pounds of acid phosphate to the acre gives the best results on the average field.

When asking for bulletins from the State College at Ithaca, N. Y., address your request to the Office of Publication. A one-cent government postcard is the best to use, and many farmers keep a supply on hand for just this purpose.

Opera House Property Sold

Feldman and Levine, Owners of Crosby Block, Are the Purchasers and Will Make It a Modern Business Building.

The sale of the Kingston Opera House property, John and Fair streets, negotiations for which have been going on for some time, was consummated this morning through Cohen Brothers, real estate brokers, 48 Main street. The purchasers are Mrs. Rachel Feldman and Nathan Levine, who are owners of the Crosby Block, Wall and John streets. The deal was closed this morning at the office of Walter Steele, West 24th street, New York city, representative of the F. V. S. Realty Company. The consideration has not been stated. The new owners contemplate a number of alterations and expect to convert the large building into an up-to-date business block as they have done with the Crosby building. The Cohen Brothers have been successful in negotiating a number of most important transfers of real estate in Kingston.

POTATO PRIZES FOR STATE FARMS.

Plans are being carried out again this year by Commissioner Berne A. Pyke of the Department of Farms and Markets for a contest in which the farms connected with state institutions will strive to produce the largest yield of potatoes on an acre of land. The contest was inaugurated last year by Charles H. Baldwin, director of the Bureau of State Institutions Farms, with the result that there was keen competition between institution farms, and Clinton Prison farm emerged the winner, producing 465.5 bushels to the acre.

The farm connected with the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Bath was second, with a production of 355.3 bushels per acre, and the farm in connection with the Brooklyn State Hospital was third with 342 bushels per acre. Charles Sturges, farm superintendent of Clinton Prison was awarded a cup as the winner of the potato contest and was also made president of the Potato Club.

Intensive production of potatoes on the state institution farms is intended to be an important factor in the production of food for the state's wards in the various institutions. It also gives them healthful outdoor employment.

Potato Production Method.

The methods followed by Mr. Sturges, at the Clinton prison farm last year when he was the winner of the contest, are described in a letter which has been sent out by Mr. Baldwin to the various institutions. The letter, in part, follows:

"It is generally agreed that weather conditions control production of any crop more or less, and that this is true to a greater extent with potatoes than perhaps almost any other crop. Generally speaking, potatoes do best in a cold season, when there is a rather large rainfall. Dannemora is located in the Adirondack Mountains, and has an elevation of 1,500 feet. The elevation and location gave them an advantage over the greater part of the state, especially last year, although the average yield of potatoes in Clinton county in 1925 was said to be less than 60 bushels per acre. Most of the land in this county, however, is on a much lower elevation than is Dannemora, Plattsburgh being but 200 feet above sea level.

"All things considered, you will find that Clinton Prison Farm is ideally located for potato growing, and weather conditions in 1925 gave it an advantage over many sections. In addition to this, Mr. Sturges used his best judgment in selecting a field that he considered best adapted to growing this crop. He started preparations early by using a liberal amount of stable manure; he took great care in plowing well and deep (8 inches) and harrowed it so as to make an excellent seed bed. Mr. Sturges places more stress upon the preparation of the soil than do many. He was fortunate in being in a locality where there was a surplus of potatoes in the spring of 1925; in other words, potatoes were selling for as low as thirty cents a bushel the previous fall. He used a large amount of this seed; not only were the pieces large and well greened, but he planted them close together, 20 inches between the rows, with hills 12 inches apart.

Sturges Cultivated Frequently.

"When the potato plants were small, and in many sections were suffering from the extremely hot weather of June, Mr. Sturges's plants had enough reserve food and moisture from the large seed pieces to carry them safely through this dry period, and instead of standing still or being injured, they grew rapidly; and all through the early season Mr. Sturges saw that the ground was cultivated frequently, so that no moisture would be lost and no weeds allowed to start and rob the potatoes of moisture and plant food.

"In addition to stable manure (15-2-3 tons per acre), a liberal amount of 5-10-5 fertilizer (2165 lbs. per acre) was applied with drill. The potatoes were re-covered three times. When the tops began to get so large that it was difficult to cultivate without injuring them, Mr. Sturges covered the grounds between the rows with a liberal amount of straw and chaff. This prevented evaporation, and also prevented to some extent weeds from growing."

Disturbed by Trifles.

"Life is a tender thing and easily molested. The smallest and slightest impediments are the worst plagues; and as little trifles annoy the eye, so do little affairs annoy the mind.—Benjamin Franklin.

Backs Bloused in Many New Frocks

Irregular Hemline Points Toward Longer Skirts; Cape and Capelet.

The forward-looking ladies of the mode will tread a difficult path this season. So many themes have been offered by the Paris couture, observes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune, that even the casual dilettante in fashion can choose from an infinite variety of ideas, and the new chic will be a matter of painstaking individual selection.

Consider the silhouette question. The newest in all Paris is the "Page Boy," which Martial et Armand presents, built on the lines of the page boy's doublet primarily, but in materials less cumbersome to wear. Taffeta is the favored fabric sponsored for the "Page Boy"—the soft and supple taffeta which so gracefully adapts itself to the slender silhouette of youth.

If one regards the stationary line of sports clothes and ensembles for morning wear, the silhouette is almost perpendicular, but when that line begins to move there is another story to tell—the slight flare. The flaring movement is legion in its interpretation, but in coats its leading factor is the side plait. Some are flat, some are box, some are inverted. Occasionally there is a frankly circular skirt in the sports costume, such as that shown in "Cow Girl," in the Jane Regny collection, or again in the two-piece ensemble seen at Louisboulogne, which presents the skirt very full in front and very tight and plain in back. Plaited skirts have gone back to that tight effect which ripples so easily when in motion.

The cape, cape-dress, cape-coat and capelet divide their attention between silhouettes for morning and silhouettes for afternoon. The cape, of course, continues its journey into evening hours in a dozen variations mainly tight at the hips. But hipline saugeness in wraps depends more on the wearer than on the coat, for this is another buttonless season, and largely unbelted except in the homespun sports and motoring coats which have quite wide belts.

In the afternoon the silhouette changes its personality and chooses to be fluffy and full. Ruffles are plaited and circular, or plinked and gathered as Jenny and Cheruit do it. Backs are bloused in many of the frocks, giving an adroit means of loosening the silhouette of the waist above its hipline deep belt, sometimes arranged in three tiers of belts as Worth presents it. Skirts are very full and by virtue of their fullness appear shorter than ever, while sports and street clothes are consistently short, some just touching the bend of the knee. Afternoon clothes, especially for more formal occasions, are a trifle longer. The irregular hemline, seen so often, assists in the longer skirt for afternoon.

Smart Cape-Coat With Collar of Summer Fur

Showing a striking tan coat with smart cape in points at side, and a collar of tan summer fur. The tan coat is of a wide brown band.

Blouses More Feminine.

Blouses become more feminine in line but blouses make a right about face and become softer and more feminine. Plaited joints and cascades of frills contribute much to the softness of blouses designed for the new tailors.

Larger Hats of Navy Blue.

A new note in spring fashions is the wearing of larger hats of navy blue straw with the new blue tulle dresses and costumes. Usually a touch of red is introduced somewhere about the costume.

APPLE AFRAID.

Troublesome Pests in Many Orchards—There and Timely Spray Helps.

Severe infestations of aphids in New York apple orchards often occur unless effective methods of combating the pest are employed at the critical stage in the development of the insects, says the entomologist at the State Experiment Station at Geneva, who recommends that the first or delayed dormant spray be made just as the leaves protrude from the buds from one-fourth to one-half inch.

While there are several species of aphids which feed on the apple, the one that inflicts the greatest amount of injury on the fruit is the so-called rosy aphid which begins to hatch out on the twigs and small branches just as the buds begin to swell, says the station specialist. Nothing has yet been discovered in the way of a spray or dust that will destroy the eggs, so all control measures are aimed at the newly hatched young. If these tiny aphids can be reached with the spray mixture before the foliage has developed sufficiently to afford them any protection, they can be held in check fairly well.

Although many preparations have been tried out in the station experiments, including both sprays and dusts, nothing has been found as effective as standard lime-sulfur and nicotine with a little lead arsenate added for any caterpillars that may be on hand this early in the season. Lime-sulfur 11 gallons, lead arsenate 2 1/2 pounds, nicotine sulfate 3/4 pint, and water to make 100 gallons is the formula recommended for best results.

The spray should be applied from the ground and under the tree, it is said, in order to reach the undersides of the twigs, as the young aphids congregate on the lower twigs and on the sheltered side of the twigs and branches so that many of them are missed when spraying is done from the top of the spray tank.

ROADSIDE THIEVES FIND VIGILANCE SERVICE WORKS.

That the Farm Bureau Vigilance Service can and will act as discovered recently by a couple of roadside thieves in Broome county who helped themselves liberally to trees and shrubs on a farmer's lawn around the burned-down remains of his house. They chose for their thievery the very day that the State Vigilance Service was holding a regional conference in the nearby city of Binghamton, organizing county vigilance service to protect farmers' property from just such depredations.

In the midst of the meeting, while Lieutenant Inspector Albert B. Moore, of the State Troopers, was speaking, there came a long-distance call from Frank Bingham of West Chenango who reported his loss to George W. Young, chairman of the State Vigilance Committee, giving the license number of the truck in which the thieves had carried off their plunder. Troopers were immediately dispatched after the men and within an hour or two they were under arrest. According to Bingham, they had taken at least fifty dollars worth of rose bushes, trees and shrubs.

Similar losses, though small perhaps in the individual instance, aggregate about a million dollars a year in this state. It is to combat this evil, which has grown with the growth of motor traffic, that the New York State Farm Bureau Federation organized its Vigilance Service. Vigilance Service signs are already posted along the highways and on farms in many counties of the state and rewards of twenty-five and ten dollars are offered by the federation for the detection and apprehension of offenders. The State Troopers are giving their hearty support to the farmers' attempt to protect their property.

Arthur Cole, who has completed his home here has returned to his old home near Sandy Creek for the summer.

There was an automobile accident on the New Palitz and Highland state road opposite Frank Auchmoody's apple orchard last Saturday morning. Two men in a Nash car, who were traveling west at a high rate of speed, tried to pass a man in a Dodge car going west also. The Nash in turning out to the left hit the trolley track with such force that it bounded across the road in front of the Dodge. The front part of the Nash was up in the air. It struck the ground at the north side of the road and turned over and the left side of the car hit a telegraph pole, breaking it completely off at the ground. Frank Auchmoody, who was ploughing near by, saw the accident and summoned help, but on reaching the scene found that both men had crawled out from under the car. The broken off piece of the telegraph pole was found between the front seat and the wind shield of the car. The car was a wreck. Thomas Elliott brought it to New Palitz with his wrecker. One of the men was cut on the hand and had his leg bruised and was brought to a doctor in New Palitz. The other escaped with apparently no injuries. Both men blamed the man in the Dodge for the accident, but an eye witness states that it was their own fault, as the man in the Dodge car was not going at a high rate of speed as they were and had his car under control all the while.

Fatal Accident At Traver Hollow

Larry Lombardi Dead as Result of Car Turning Over Near Traver Hollow Bridge Monday Afternoon.

Larry Lombardi, 39 years old, is dead as a result of an automobile accident on the Ashokan boulevard Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Lombardi driving a big Nash sedan was accompanied by Roy Yellum of High Falls and two young women. Yellum and the two women escaped serious injury, although one of the women was cut about the thigh when the Nash car turned over several times on the sharp turn just west of the Traver Hollow bridge. The car, which was proceeding toward Kingston, evidently at a high rate of speed, turned over several times and came to rest crosswise in the road. Lombardi, who resides near High Falls, was very severely injured, his skull being fractured and he was injured internally.

Very shortly after the accident Morris Samter of this city came along in his car and picked up Lombardi who was rushed to Kingston and taken to the Kingston City Hospital where he died almost on entry.

Just how many times the car turned over is not known for when the authorities were notified of the accident and came on the scene of the accident the other occupants of the car had disappeared. Later it was learned that Yellum secured another car and conveyed the women to High Falls. An effort was made to get a doctor at the scene to care for the woman who was injured but before a doctor was secured she was placed in a car and taken to High Falls where Dr. Oliver attended her.

At the hospital Lombardi was examined by Dr. Norwood and Dr. Snyder. Coroner Conner was notified and with Deputy Sheriff Ellisworth went to the scene of the accident. The Nash sedan, license number 9H9130, was a total wreck, and after being placed on skids was taken to the garage of Claude Bell. The right wheels were broken and the left rear wheel was also broken, the top was smashed and the car torn and twisted. Persons who viewed the wreck stated the car appeared as though it had been struck by a locomotive so badly was it wrecked. From skid marks on the road it would appear as though the car was traveling at a very high rate of speed at the time the brakes were applied and the car started to turn over. The condition of the car after the accident also bore out this fact.

After the wreck the car lay across the road in such a manner as to block traffic on a very bad turn. Claude Bell who went to the scene of the accident moved the car so as to allow traffic to move past the scene.

Mound Builders Distinct

The mound builders are generally believed to have been a race separate and distinct from the Indians, since there are differences in the formation of their skulls.

ORCHARD CLEANINGS

PROTECT ALL FRUIT TREES FROM MICE

September and October are the months when the far-sighted orchardist makes preparations to guard against possible injury to his trees by hungry field mice which gnaw the trunks and roots. Such injury is liable to occur at any time after November 1, although most of it usually is inflicted in mid-winter or very early in spring under cover of heavy snow and when the more favored food supply is running low.

That serious injury to orchard trees by mice occurs only at irregular intervals makes the menace the greater, for it usually catches the orchardist unprepared and wholly unaware of the damage being done until the melting snow in spring uncovers girdled trunks, or the wilting trees in mid-summer betray the hidden work of the mice on the roots.

Preventive measures cost little in comparison with the protection afforded, and although frequently a girdled tree may be saved by timely bridge grafting, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Many progressive fruit growers realize this truth and each fall and several times during the winter examine their orchards carefully for mouse signs. If mice are present they prepare to destroy them or take steps to prevent their attacks upon trees.

Methods of preventing mouse injury vary according to the species of the mouse and the cultural practices followed. In much of the eastern United States pine mice are present and their injury is usually inflicted below the surface of the ground. It is necessary to destroy such mice unless they are driven out by deep and clean cultivation of the whole orchard. Where meadow mice only are concerned, such methods as mechanical protectors and repellent washes are practicable although the destruction of the mice is preferable.

Paradichlorobenzene Is

Promising Borer Remedy

A new remedy has killed nearly all the borers on the peach trees to which it has been applied during a recent two years' tests. Such results justify its widespread use this autumn, for the borers are a bad pest and to dig them out is an awful job.

The stuff has a jaw-breaking name—para-di-chloro-benzene. It is a white crystalline solid, insoluble in water and vaporizes slowly at ordinary temperatures. The gas given off is much heavier than air, its odor resembling naphthalene. This gas is nonpoisonous to man but deadly to insects exposed to it for quite a period. The stuff is a by-product in chemical manufacture, is very cheap, and has been widely tested in New Jersey by Blakeslee and Peterson of the state's experiment station. Most satisfactory results follow its application after all the eggs of the peach borer have hatched. The dates for its application should be varied to meet the hatching period. No serious injury has been seen on peach trees six years of age or older, even though some were treated as late as November, 1920. To obtain the greatest insurance against injury, the crystals should be removed from around the trees in two or three weeks, provided the soil has not been wet and the soil temperature has been 60 degrees or higher.

Place Order Early for

Choice Nursery Stock

Some buyers of nursery stock get the choice plantings—and some just wait till the last minute and so get what is left.

All that is needed is a little forethought to get in the first and more desirable class, the fruit men at the state college at Ithaca say.

The grower should also insist on having a definite date of delivery, clean stock, and no substitution of varieties.

Many are disappointed by purchasing trees from traveling nursery agents. While there are nurseries of integrity who employ agents it is unsafe to patronize the average tree agent, the experience of growers indicates. It is better to patronize a reputable local firm, or those who are well known and have a reputation to sustain.

It is unimportant what particular method was used in propagating the trees, or whether they were grown in the North or in the South, just so they are true to name and grade, and are healthy.

A one or two-year old A-1 tree is always preferable to an older tree, or to second-grade stock. For general planting, the two-year-old tree is most in favor in this state, the college workers have found.

Everbearing Strawberries

Everbearing strawberries reproduce the same as other varieties, that is, by runners. Some varieties do not form many runners unless there is sufficient rain to moisten the soil well. Runners do not necessarily reduce the number of berries produced. It depends more upon the number of plants per square yard of space. If crowded too close together, the extra plants are a nuisance. The plants should not be less than six to eight inches apart when fruiting.

Inconsistent Queen

Queen Elizabeth attempted repeatedly to dictate to the English people on dress and had stringent laws passed forbidding the women who skirted fashion in furs, veils and other extravagances. But when she died she left 2,000 dresses in her wardrobe.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

WDBZ will make its most ambitious attempt at remote control broadcasting tonight with the Mendelssohn Club concert from the High School Auditorium.

Last night was great for band music. With the Salvation Army Band at WGY and the Reading Railroad Band at WJZ there was lots of it.

The irrepressible WMAK, as usual, couldn't be lost by those who fished among the short waves. KSD whispered from St. Louis. WJAX came up from the sunny south.

WBZ had a version of "Down by the River" that was blended with "Little Annie Rooney," making an amazingly rough neck feature.

The early program of WGY was opened with a bloopers' concert.

The chattering noise, strongest at 110 meters, was exactly like the noise that two or three years ago was blamed on the arc lights, which no longer exist.

Favorite old songs which have won their way into the hearts of music lovers the country over will feature the series of summer radio concerts to be given each Sunday night, under the auspices of A. Atwater Kent. Bartlett's "Dream," which Evan Williams made famous and which quite fittingly was the last song he sang, will be broadcast in the second concert of the series, May 16, as well as "Marchetta," another old popular favorite.

Mayor Block Appoints Three

Last week Mayor Morris Block filed with the city clerk's office the appointment of Dr. William H. Connelly of No. 143 Franklin street as a member of the board of police commissioners for a term expiring May 4, 1930. For some reason not stated the appointment was not made public until late Monday. The mayor also filed the appointment of Judge John G. Van Etten, a member of the city zoning board of appeals, as a member of the board of education for a term of five years. Louis Beeres was also reappointed for a term of five years as a member of the education board.

Colder than ice

This Frigidaire cooling coil is equivalent to a 250 pound cake of ice. It is twelve degrees colder than ice and never melts.
An average ice-box when filled with ice will have a temperature of about 55 degrees in the food compartments.
As the ice melts the temperature rises.
Such temperatures are too high for keeping food in a fresh, beautiful condition.
Frigidaire keeps the food you eat at a temperature constantly below 50 degrees—which government experts demand for healthful food preservation.

K. K. and K. C. Contend Tonight

At Opening of Twilight League Season on Fair Grounds—Game Next Sunday Should Be a Hot One.

The Twilight League of the city will start its motion tonight at the Fair Grounds with Kantrowitz's Kolts and the Knights of Columbus team furnishing the action for the opening. The match is scheduled for 6:30.

Both of these clubs have signed up a squad of strong players and it is expected that the teams will be on even terms when they take the field this evening for the opener. There will also be two more good games this week, on Thursday and Friday evenings. There will be no admission charge to the contest with the fans entitled to a seat in the grand stand.

When the Kingston Colonials face the American Chain team of Bridgeport, Connecticut, on Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds they will be up against a band of dependable players although nearly all will be strangers to the fans in this locality.

Walter Walker, manager of the Chain team, possesses a roster of players who have made the Bridgeport club one of the strongest semi-pro outfits in Connecticut. Manager Walker has three strong twirlers in Targion, Kohout and Altshuler, but it is not known as yet which moundman will be given the assignment for Sunday's contest. The balance of the lineup includes Warren on the receiving end of the battery, Schults on first, Dowden at second, Sutay at short and Crispy on third base. In the outfield Kristine will perform in the left canvas, Crevey in center and Schriber in the right corner of the outer garden. This club was booked here last season but rain kept the visitors away.

Governor Vetoes Westchester Bill

Albany, N. Y., May 11.—Governor Smith today vetoed the Westall bill proposing a new charter of government for Westchester county.

The governor said the proposal would not provide for a simplified and responsible government, and "falls to meet the fundamental needs of a new charter for that county."

A year ago the Governor approved an almost identical bill, but the charter proposed was defeated by the voters of the county at the election last fall.

At a hearing before the governor yesterday, opponents of the charter proposal charged it was drafted in the interest of the Republican organization of the county.

Not Enough Home Rule.

"This leaves the whole charter and the government under it still subject to changes by the legislature. In this, and in other respects it fails to give to Westchester county even the semblance of home rule. While it is true that the charter can not be adopted without the vote of the people of the county, after they have once adopted it the legislature is thereafter free to tinker with it. Any new charter to be effective should give the county greater power over its own affairs and protection against special legislation not desired by the county."

"In addition to the above it is open to the very serious objection that the first election of the county administration, under its provisions, comes in a presidential year. In other words, the new officials for the first administration will be chosen at a time when the attention of the electorate will be entirely consumed by the issues involved in a national election."

Champ's Services Up to Officials

New York, May 11.—The controversy between Tex Rickard and J. Humbert Fugazy over which will fall heir to Paul Berlenbach's services in his next championship start probably will be settled today at the meeting of the State Athletic Commission. Rickard has Berlenbach signed to defend his title against Young Stribling on June 10. Fugazy has the much-prized Berlenbach-Delaney light heavyweight championship match scheduled for two weeks later and wants the commission to throw out the Berlenbach-Stribling match.

Benny Leonard, retired light-weight champion, also will appear before the board. It was reported. The nature of his visit was not known but it is believed that it has something to do with Leonard's proposed return to the ring this summer against Mickey Walker, welterweight champion.

Farmers to Stop Pilfering

For petty pilfering of farms it was found that 95 per cent of the pilfering was done by people who did not intend to steal and who did not intend to steal and that but 5 per cent was done by professional thieves who stole for gain. Signs will stop a lot of the 95 per cent but nothing but jail will stop the 5 per cent, signs will do no good.

The signs this year state that the property is protected by the State Vigilance Service and that a reward will be paid for a conviction. This will remind many of the fact that the farm produce is not free for the taking. When new signs are printed an additional line will be added stating that crimes committed on the property will be prosecuted by the State Troopers.

Lieutenant Moore recommended liberal use of the signs so that people were constantly reminded of the matter as they drove along a road.

He gave some advice on what to do when a farm was pilfered. First he advised immediate notification of the sheriff, Troopers or town authorities. To wait a couple of days was to allow the thief to get away. Get the number of a car from which people are pilfering, get the make of the car, the number of people in the car. Many people were afraid to give information to Troopers for fear that a conviction would result in disaster. No one need fear the consequences. The Troopers would not give out information of a confidential nature or tell the criminal who made the charge against them or gave them facts which resulted in apprehension. If you do not know who committed the crime but have a suspect, tell the Trooper, he will question and learn the facts. Above all don't delay in notifying the authorities and don't destroy evidence. Fingerprints, footprints or tracks of vehicles used by the criminals are of great importance in tracing a crime.

Lieutenant Moore said every criminal leaves a trace but these traces are often destroyed before the authorities arrive and make apprehension impossible. Leave the scene of a crime as you find it until the arrival of the investigating authority.

He also advised persons to watch individuals who "come prowling around property on a pretext of wanting to buy. The professional thief usually looks over the lay of the ground before committing a crime. An unscrupulous chicken dealer usually comes in advance and either seeks to buy chickens or some other product prior to breaking in the hen roost. He wants to get the lay of the land.

He told of the importance of the justice of the peace in enforcing law in a community. Although he spoke as a Trooper, he did not desire to leave the impression that the Troopers should be notified exclusively of a crime. Any town or county authority might be notified. In Ulster county a sheriff's office with a very efficient sheriff but Ulster county was the best policed county in the state from the Trooper standpoint. Whether this was because the county was so bad or so fortunate he declined to say.

In Ulster county there are eight stations where Troopers may be located. If one station is busy and no men are available one of the other stations will respond. At present there are Troopers stationed at all central points of the county. The headquarters for the county is at Woodstock, which is an automobile station. Phoenixia has a motorcycle station. Saugerties is a mounted station. East Kingston is also a mounted station. Highland is an automobile station. Marlborough a motorcycle station. Rosendale is a mounted station and Ellenville is a motorcycle station.

He also gave advice on swearing out a warrant. If the number of a car is taken and the occupant is not identified a warrant should be sworn out in the name of "John Doe" driver of car bearing license number... This will prevent false arrests and will enable the authorities to question and arrest the proper person.

Special communications or comment may be sent direct to Captain Daniel Fox at Sidney, headquarters for Troop C to which local troopers belong.

At the conclusion of his talk questions were asked and answered by Lieut. Moore and Mr. Flansburgh.

"WINE-BATH" PARTY HOST MUST STAND TRIAL

New York, May 11.—Earl Carroll, theatrical producer, must stand trial for perjury growing out of the grand jury investigation into his alleged "wine-bath" party.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard today overruled the demurrer argued recently by Carroll's attorney, to quash the indictment, claiming the indictment was faultily drawn and did not specify wherein the producer had perjured himself. The government charges that Carroll told the grand jury there were no intoxicating liquors served at the party, during which a girl is alleged to have bathed in a tub full of wine.

Judge Goddard held the indictment satisfactory, and ruled that Carroll be tried on the basis of it.

The bulky form became a curious vine on a sort of living the violet, blue and green rays of the sun.

Cows and Cars Must Be Paid for

Supreme Court Trial Term Deals With Both, to the Exclusion of All Other Forms of Property.

Several cases were disposed of in Supreme court Monday when court convened at 10 o'clock in the morning and held an all day session.

In an action brought by John D. Van Kleeck against Johan Sherman of Kerhonkson, a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $125 was returned. Mr. Van Kleeck brought an action to recover for three cows which he claimed he sold to Mr. Sherman some time ago. Mr. Sherman claimed that he never bought the cows but was keeping them for Mr. Van Kleeck at his farm. He entered a counter claim for the board of the stock, Brühner, Canfield & Ellsworth appeared for plaintiff and H. Westlake Coons and Judge Jenkins for the defendant.

An action brought by Lawrence J. Smith of Rosendale and an action brought by Ransom E. Wilcox of New Rochelle were combined and tried together. The two actions were brought against Sam Kaplan of New York to recover for damages to cars owned by the plaintiffs which were damaged on July 6, 1925, at Mt. Tremper when the car of the defendant collided with them on the turn at Frank Ecker's mill. Kaplan did not appear personally but was represented by counsel. No defense was entered as to the negligence of the defendant only as to the amount of damage to the two cars.

Mr. Smith was driving a Ford sedan and was accompanied by his wife. He was closely following the Wilcox Dodge sedan occupied by Mr. Wilcox and his wife. As they reached the turn the Kaplan car came around the turn and failed to make the curve. It struck first the Wilcox car and then the Smith car. Both were damaged. It was testified that the Ford sedan 1925 model was slightly injured and the Dodge very badly injured. Bert Wilcox who conducted the garage at Cold Brook testified that the repairs made by him were necessary to place the cars in proper working condition. Before the accident Mr. Wilcox said the Dodge was worth $1,200 and immediately after the accident $200. After he had made repairs amounting to $225.04 the car was worth $890. The Ford was a 1922 model worth before the accident $375. After the accident and before it was repaired it was worth $75. After he had made repairs amounting to $68.91 the Ford was worth $200.

The defendant swore Mr. Reynolds, an expert, who said he saw the Dodge after the repairs had been made and he could not tell that the car had been damaged. He said the car was worth as much after the accident as it was before since it had been very thoroughly overhauled and repaired.

The case was sent to the jury at 4:30 o'clock. John W. Eckert appeared for the plaintiffs and Robert G. Groves for the defendant.

Following the trial of these actions an undefended action brought by Mr. and Mrs. Smith against Sam Kaplan to recover for personal injuries was tried. Mr. Smith suffered a broken rib and an injury to his head, as well as six weeks loss of time. Mrs. Smith suffered from shock and nervousness and testified that she was now nervous and suffered from nervous indigestion as a result of the accident. Her arm was also injured and still pained her. John W. Eckert also appeared for the Smiths in this action. There was no defense. The case was submitted to the jury at 5 o'clock.

A jury was called in a negligence action brought by Frances Thompson, an infant, by Catherine Meyer guardian, against Clowry Chapman. Miss Thompson was injured in an automobile accident at Woodstock. Before the jury was completed court adjourned until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

MONTELA MAN IN JAIL FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING.

Archie Grant was arrested at Montela Monday by Sergeant James Cunningham and Trooper Coons on a warrant charging reckless driving and driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Grant was arraigned before Justice of the Peace James Van Eiten and held in $500 bail for the action of the grand jury. Unable to supply the necessary bail, he was remanded to jail.

It is alleged that last Saturday night Grant was driving his car through the village of Kerhonkson in a reckless manner. Mrs. Alice Wood, 35 years old, was struck by the car and severely injured about the head. After striking the woman Grant failed to stop. Mrs. Wood was taken to the village drug store, where she was attended by Dr. Harker.

Later the identity of the car and driver was made known and a warrant was sworn out for Grant, who was arrested by the troopers late Monday afternoon and charged with violation of section 230 of the highway law.

Device Warns Flyer Near Ground in Fog

London.—By means of new invention air pilots are able to steer safely to a given point in the thickest fog. Flight Lieut. H. C. Cooch has patented the Royal Aeronautical Society.

By means of delicate instruments in the cockpit a pilot is kept automatically informed when he is within 1,000 feet of the ground, and the loss of every foot of height as he descends is also indicated.

Other instruments show the altitude just above the aerodrome he is over, after he has arrived in the vicinity of his destination, so that he may land in safety, though he may not be able to see the ground until he has actually sighted it.

DAIRY FACTS

MAKING UP RATION FOR A DAIRY COW

There are three substances which must be considered in making up the ration of a dairy cow. These are contained in almost all feeding stuffs to a greater or less extent. They are protein, carbohydrates and fat. Some feeds contain a high percentage of one of these and other feeds contain a high percentage of another. The protein or nitrogenous substance is most expensive of the three. It is used by the animal in production of hair, hoof, hide, horn, blood and muscle. Such feeds as alfalfa, cowpeas and clover hay, cotton seed meal, bran, oats and gluten feeds contain a high percentage of this substance. The carbohydrates (sugar and starches and fat) are used for the same purpose and may be classed together. These substances produce heat to keep the body warm, furnishing energy and make the fat that is stored in the body and in the milk. Such feeds as corn, kafir and the silage and fodder from these plants, timothy, hay, millet, oat and wheat straw, all contain a good percent of carbohydrates. All of the feeds mentioned contain some fat.

A balanced ration must contain both protein and carbohydrate feeds. In sections of the states, where alfalfa, clover, peas or other legumes can be successfully grown for hay, they should be depended upon to furnish the protein in the ration and since protein is furnished in the roughage it is best to feed a grain which is rich in carbohydrates to balance the ration. Thus if alfalfa hay is available for roughage, corn is the logical grain ration. Where legumes cannot be grown the roughages usually are depended upon to furnish carbohydrates and under this condition the grain ration should be made up of some feed rich in protein. If the roughage consists of cane or kafir hay or fodder or prairie hay, the grain ration should be made up of such feeds as bran, oil meal, oats, etc.

The protein feeds are the most expensive ones on the market, hence a cheaper dairy ration can be obtained in localities where the protein is produced in such home-grown feeds as alfalfa, peas and clover hay.

Grooming Dairy Cows Is Favored on Every Farm

While the average man is ashamed to go on the road with a dirty team that has not been curried that morning, he thinks nothing of letting his cows go all winter without even brushing them.

Cows need and respond to grooming as much as horses, yet somehow the curry comb and brush in the cow barn seem entirely out of place to many men. The idea that cows do not need grooming is a good companion for the one about planting potatoes by the moon, just a notion.

Of course, grooming must start early and be kept going. A great aid to keeping cows clean is a clipping machine. The flanks and parts of the belly that most usually become soiled can be clipped without injury to the cow. The amount of bedding available and the warmth of the barn must be taken into consideration, of course. Clipping heads and necks also reduces the hiding places of lice and makes their extermination easier.

Dairy Industry Is Big

The dairy industry in the United States produces an annual value of more than $2,000,000,000. If the 24,000,000 dairy cows that produce this wealth could stand in single file westward from New York city the line would reach around the earth with enough left over for a double row from New York to San Francisco.

Dairy Facts

Money which furnishes feed for good cows is invested, not spent.

Variety in the diet is essential to health and growth, so recent experiments show.

Potatoes fed to cows give practically as objectionable flavors or odors to milk, regardless of time or quantity.

In producing clean milk, dairymen not only perform a service to mankind by minimizing the dangers of impure milk, but they also perform a service to themselves.

A cow that produces 30 pounds or more of milk per day requires a ration rich in fat. Clovers or other legumes will supply this need.

When fed to dairy cows with silage and in connection with a high protein concentrate, soden hay is a valuable feed.

In only two years out of the last six has the dairy cow population of the United States increased in proportion to the increase in human population.

Secretary of Agriculture Justice S. Brown has appropriated of $75,000, 000 to the "dairy states" for use in the construction of federal dairies.

This contribution for good roads, once good roads have been provided, is easily explained. The simple truth is that good roads do not cost one penny more than bad roads.

Democrats Seek to Drop Unit Rule

Norman E. Mack and Miss Elizabeth Marbury Launch Fight Which Requires Presidential Nominees to Receive Two-Thirds of Convention Vote.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 11.—Norman E. Mack, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Miss Elizabeth Marbury, both members of the National Committee, today launched a fight for the abrogation of the rule that presidential nominations shall be made by a two-thirds vote of all the delegates. They want a rule adopted providing for nomination by a majority vote.

"New York state favors a recommendation by the Democratic National Committee to the next National Convention of the Democratic party the adoption of a rule which will provide that the nominations shall be made by a majority vote of all the delegates elected instead of a two-thirds vote of the delegates as has been enforced by the last four conventions," said a statement issued by Mack and Miss Marbury here.

"Although the two-thirds rule was a law adopted in 1836, the custom has been to have all candidates concede the nomination of the man receiving the majority of the vote of the National Convention until in 1912 in Baltimore.

"New York state also favors adoption of a rule that will allow each delegate elected to the convention to vote for a candidate for any office to be nominated by such convention. This will require a rule that will abandon the so-called unit rule as enforced by former conventions."

Springfield Girl Leaps to Death

Springfield, Mass., May 11.—Miss Gertrude M. Sturton, 24, private secretary to Frank L. Dunlop, wealthy estate operator, leaped from the window of her office on the sixth floor of a building in the heart of the business district today. She was rushed to Springfield Hospital, but died before she could be operated on.

The girl narrowly missed striking several pedestrians as she fell to the sidewalk. Another girl in the Dunlop office who saw Miss Sturton jump became hysterical. Miss Dunlop said Miss Sturton was a good health but inclined to be despondent at times. He described her as one of the most brilliant girls ever employed in his office and could give no reason why she should wish to end her life.

OUT IN BRITISH STRIKE

Government Force of Idle Men Increased—Government Less Optimistic.

London, May 11.—The paralysis of the general strike will be further attended by an order issued today directing moulder, shipyard workers and engineers to cease work at midnight tonight. This latest order affects 300,000 workmen.

The announcement of the issuance of new strike orders was closely followed by a government communique, in a less optimistic complexion than the one now communique.

"Although our returning number of strikers are returning to work there is little sign of a collapse of the general strike," said the evening communique, whereas the morning statement had stressed the fact that strikers were returning to their work.

The communique states that order signs throughout the country, this statement being made despite the arrest of seventeen in Durham for looting and a serious clash in Manchester.

The Cabinet was called into session in the House of Commons to consider what action shall be taken in the extension of the strike.

6 Dead, 4 Injured In Texas Storm

Forth Worth, Tex., May 11.—A check of casualties this morning of last night's wind, hail and rain storms in Texas revealed a list of six dead and four injured. Property loss was estimated at several million dollars.

The dead are: Thomas M. Fielder, 65, farmer, of Elmview, who died from shock when told to hurry to a storm cellar. Robert Stone, 18, was found in a well near Athens. Four Negroes lost their lives at Paris.

Lamar county suffered damages estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars. Hail laid to waste approximately 150,000 acres of various crops.

Loss to the tomato crop in Smith county was estimated to exceed a quarter of a million dollars.

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 11.—Most of the speculative markets returned to dullness and inactivity today, with professional trading the outstanding characteristic, particularly of the stock market. The bears made a feeble but ineffectual effort to extend yesterday's attack on stock values, offering the motor and rubber stocks quite freely in the first hour. Some of the specialties were also sold. But good buying demand was in evidence at the lower price levels and the whole list rallied moderately around the noon period.

Motors and specialty stocks were higher in the third and fourth hours. General Motors, Nash Motors, Hudson and Studebaker made good improvement. Pools in Radio, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Ward Baking and other low-priced stocks marked prices up sharply. Some of the high-priced industrials and specialties joined half-heartedly in the rally, but the market for many of the prominent stocks, including the rails, copper, etc., was characterized by the inactivity more than anything else.

The money market displayed an easier tone today and the call loan rate declined to 3 1/2 per cent.

Time money was dull at 3 1/2 per cent for the 30-day rate and 4 per cent bid; 4 1/2 per cent offered for longer maturities.
